Wellington Methodist Endowment Trust - Looking for a new Secretary

- Do you want to make a difference in young people's lives?
- Do you have a desire for voluntary service?
- Do you want to create opportunities in the field of education?

If you answered yes to any of these questions and live in the Wellington region, there is an opportunity for you to assist the Wellington Methodist Endowment Trust.

The Trust's objectives are to support, and develop children and young people, of Māori or of other cultures and races in Aotearoa New Zealand. This is achieved through the annual allocation of grants to schools (and school-related organisations) in the greater Wellington region, to support projects that are focused on the personal development of children and young people. The Trust looks particularly for projects that are innovative and creative and help address inequality.

The Trust is urgently seeking a secretary to manage the administrative affairs. The position requires about 10-12 hours monthly with significant time commitments preparing for the two meetings per year and coordinating the school applications. In total, it may be 250 hours of work annually. Strong administrative and literacy skills along with competency in standard computer programmes and technology literacy including managing online meetings are a prerequisite. The majority of the work is now completed online. The position is provided with an honorarium. Some of the applications that have been supported include kapa haka lessons for many schools, the development of a bike track, assistance to attend school camps, funding for in-school creative performances, Duffy book funding and support towards the purchase of warm winter jackets with the school logo. Feedback from the schools affirms how valuable the funding is to promote projects which develop pride, mana and self-esteem in the students. We pray that the intrinsic values that students develop are life-changing.

The Trust seeks to fill this position by the end of August, so please send an expression of interest to wellingtonmethodisttrust@gmail.com
